The importance of showing kindness and humanity to others is always the key to success in life. How science has improved our living standards, how technology has reduced the need to human contact in many ways. But this advancement in technology could create psychological or mental illness, anxiety, depression, and many other disorders, and ultimately it could result in inhumanly behavior.

She said that if this kind of behavior is practiced for a long time, the society would deteriorate. Then she expressed the value of kindness, politeness, showing respect to teachers and fellow students, and motivate the students to be successful in their future endeavors.
