The first session was chaired by Mrs. Lalrinsangi Nghinglova, member, Seminar organizing committee. At the very outset, she introduced members of the Seminar organising committee to the gathering. After welcoming the resource person, students and faculty members to the one-day seminar she invited the Principal to give the welcome speech. The representative from Mizoram State Legal Authority, the sponsoring agency for the seminar was then invited to give a short report on the function of the MSLA. After the short report, the resource person Miss Lalfamkimi was invited to give her talk on Legal provisions relating to Women's Rights (constitutional, IPC, CrPC, and customary Law). Her interesting lectures on the rights of women gave a clear insight to the special provisions made for women in the Indian constitution, IPC and CrPC. She laid emphasis on laws that were of direct concern to the younger generation, as majority of the participants were students.

The afternoon session was chaired by Dr. Rosangliana, member, Seminar organising committee. The resource person was Mr. Jimmy Laltlanmawia, a social worker with personal experiences in rescuing victims of human trafficking. He spoke about the many incidents where he went to the rescue of many victims who had been lured by traffickers. His personal account of these experiences were of great interest to the audience. He also pointed out the various ways in which people are lured by traffickers thus giving a fair warning to students, who, in the future may face such problems.

The awareness programme ended with a vote of thanks from Prof. B. Zoliana, chairman, Seminar organizing committee. The programme was a great success and the participants learnt a lot from both the resource persons who were eloquent and well versed in the topics assigned to them. The Seminar Organizing is thankful to the Principal, the participants and especially to the Mizoram State Legal Service Authority for sponsoring the entire programme.
